

Perry Rossi

Perry's natural musical talents showed very early. At age 2, his gift of perfect pitch was discovered by his father, Sonny Rossi, a musician well into his career as bandleader at a leading New York hotel. Perry began studying classical and jazz piano and clarinet. His vocal and rhythmic skills began to blossom, and he was soon composing original music. With his father's resources and guidance, a nightclub act was soon developed featuring Perry as one of the youngest entertainers in the world. By Age 4, Perry was featured at New York nightclubs, and made frequent television appearances. Note Perry's press photo shown with Louis Armstrong after a show.
